

DR. FERRELL'S SLAYER MAKES A CONFESSION

Birmingham, Ala., May 3.—Jesse White, a negro, arrested yesterday in connection with the killing of Dr. C. C. Ferrell, a wealthy coal operator and widely known author, made a statement today, according to police, in which he said he shot Dr. Ferrell after the latter had fired on him. White said according to the officer that he and another negro were returning from Flat Creek and had stopped for a moment at the commissary building of the coal company of which Dr. Ferrell was president when Ferrell appeared with a revolver and began firing. He said he fired in reply and then fled, according to the police announcement.

Members of the Ferrell family told the police last night that Dr. Ferrell, whose home is near the commissary building, had been killed in a fight with two glars.

SIR WILFRED LAURIER'S NIECE TELLS SECRET OF JAVA HAREM

New York, May 3.—Miss Eva Gauthier, niece of Sir Wilfred Laurier, Canada's ex-premier, and protégé of Lord Strathcona, has done what no white woman dared to do before. She has for four years been a guest in the seraglio of the Sultan of Java with full liberty to do as she chose. When traveling in the far east, Miss Gauthier found an unknown store of musical beauty in Java. Determined to study the folk music of this little known people, Miss Gauthier, under protection of the Dutch government, was installed in the Sultan's harem among his 300 wives, with the official safeguards essential to her comfort and contentment.

A disgusting thing about the women of the harem is that they have their teeth black, their tongue black, and the saliva red," said Miss Gauthier. She has returned to Europe and is now residing in London.

WHISKEY AD DECISION IS APPEALED

Montgomery, Ala., May 3.—The Montgomery Advertiser has taken an appeal from the recent decision of Chancellor W. R. Chapman restraining the Advertiser from publishing whiskey advertisements and pronouncing the Denson anti liquor advertising law valid. Notice of the appeal was received by the registry in chancery Monday morning with instructions that a transcript be made at once and forwarded to the supreme court. It is expected the case will be submitted during the week of May 17, at which time the supreme court will take up the call of this division.

Doubtless the Advertiser case will afford a thorough test of the Denson bill but probably only the advertising feature will be considered in this case. However there are two other test cases on appeal from Birmingham, and all of the proceedings combined will result in a thorough test of the Denson bill.

Under the decree of the chancellor the Advertiser is enjoined by the State of Alabama from carrying any whiskey or beer advertisements.

Sunday Law Will Be Rigidly Enforced In This County

Grand Jury instructs Sheriff May To Enforce Sunday Law.

The grand jury empaneled last Monday finished their investigations today and adjourned Sheriff May received instructions from them to rigidly enforce the Sunday law. Beginning next Sunday all drug stores, ice cream factories, fruit stores, etc., that have been accustomed to keeping open on Sundays will be ordered closed.

People who anticipate having ice cream for Sunday dinner and expect to order it from the ice cream makers will have to do so on Saturday, as under the instructions from the grand jury no cream cannot be made or delivered by the factories on Sunday. After deliberate consideration it was decided to allow ice factories to run and deliver ice on Sunday.

"This not only applies to Dothan," said Sheriff May, "but to the entire county and will be enforced." Thus it will be seen that the blue laws are getting bluer as well as the fellow who has been accustomed to buying his soft drinks on Sundays.

Gen. Garibaldi In Anti-Austrian Riots In Streets of Rome

General Garibaldi, hero of Italy, is shown herewith in his automobile in the streets of Rome during the anti Austrian riots when a mob of citizens paraded in front of the ministry offices and shouted that the nation go to war against the Hapsburg monarchy and win back the Trentino.

General Garibaldi has belligerent views concerning his country and has exhorted the government to join the Allies and strike Austria now.

DOLLAR DAYS; FRIDAY AND SATURDAY, MAY 7 AND 8

Merchants Will Offer Special Values On These Days For $1.00

Teach your dollars to have more cents. This will be the slogan of Friday and Saturday. Of course this does not mean that this will be the only inducement offered to trade, but the leading merchants have cooperated with The Eagle on those two days, to inaugurate a campaign of dollar values that offers an opportunity for everyone to get more for one dollar than ever before in the history of Dothan.

The list of merchants on the back page of this issue comprises the leaders in their respective merchandise ranks. Second to none in the state and their names are household words among discriminating shoppers, who want good first class service backed by value. They will put more elasticity into your dollars those two days so watch for special announcements, Thursday and Friday evening in The Eagle.

OBITUARY

MRS. A. C. PARKER

Mrs. A. C. Parker, died at her home in Shreveport, La., this morning at 11:00 o'clock. The body will be brought back to Ozark, her old home, for burial.

Mrs. Parker was a sister of Mrs. Bob Brown of this city. Mrs. Brown was with her when she died.

Prosecutions will follow, states Mr. Davis.

In Early county eighteen prominent citizens have been indicted. In Burke county twenty-two indictments have been made.

"The law must be respected," said Mr. Davis. "I dislike very much to have to prosecute any first time during daylight hours good citizens, but shooting drives in baited fields is against the law and must be stopped."

GROUP 8 BANKERS MEET HERE TODAY

Group 8 Bankers composed of bankers from Geneva, Henry, Coffee, Dale, Houston and Covington counties met this afternoon in the lobby of Hotel Maule. The visiting bankers will be tendered an automobile ride this afternoon, starting about five o'clock. They will be taken over some of the best roads in the county and given an opportunity to see the wonderful agricultural possibilities of this section.

This evening a banquet will be tendered at one of the downtown cafes.

E. C. Cumbe Open For Business at the Same Old Stand

E. C. Cumbe has opened up an old stand on South St. Andrews street where he will again cater to the wants of motorcycle and bicycle fans.

Mr. Cumbe has one of the best and most complete bicycle repair shops in the state, and his workmanship is second to none, having been in the business for many years and is an expert mechanic besides.

This will be good news to his many friends and well wishers, who will be glad to see the place flourishing once more under the capable management of the old time proprietor.

Mrs. A. V. Malone, Mrs. Jim Young and Mrs. Sid Wilson have returned from Atlanta where they spent grand opera week.

SHOWS WANTING DATES

Letters are being received by Manager Thomas from New York agents to arrange dates for their companies, it is assured that Dothan people will have the opportunity of seeing some of the very latest and best productions at the Auditorium this season.

"Under Cover" with William Cortenay, now playing at Court Theatre, New York. "The Show Shop" with Douglas Fairbanks, now playing at the Hudson Theatre, New York City. "Twin Beds," the laugh festival, now playing at the Fulton Theatre, N. Y. "The Lie," with Margaret Hillington, now playing at the Harris Theatre, New York City, are some of the latest to be heard from.

"Peg O' My Heart," "The Prince of Fiers," and "Within the Law," have already arranged dates.

TO FIND GUILTY BEFORE MAKING FURNAL PROTEST

Washington, May 3.—Pending an official investigation of the circumstances of the wrecking of the American steamer Gulf Light in the English Channel, the United States will defer diplomatic representations as well as any pronouncement of policy. Two messages were received today from American Consul Stephens at Plymouth, England, reporting the Gulf Light was torpedoed off the Scilly Islands Saturday, that her captain died of heart failure and two sailors drowned.

Secretary Bryan said he would ask for a thorough and complete report from the consul and would direct Ambassador Gerard at Berlin to make similar inquiry of the German government for such facts as it might have.

The Secretary announced he did not wish to make any predictions as to the course of the American government's policy until all the facts were in its possession.

Officials were careful not to take for granted the truth of reports that a German torpedo struck the Gulf Light. Should the investigation bear out dispatches claiming that a German submarine made the attack, the United States probably will demand an indemnity sufficient to cover the losses incurred by the ship and compensation to the families of the victims. It is thought probable that an expression of formal regret also will be requested. Any diplomatic action of the United States probably will be based on the treaty of 1828 with Prussia of which the German government has taken cognizance as binding in the present day, having agreed to pay for the loss of the American ship Frye under it.

If the attack on the Gulf Light was made by a German submarine with or without warning, of which hold that Germany is in the position of having violated the following article of the treaty of 1828:

"To prevent entirely all disorder and violence, it is stipulated that when the vessels of the neutral party, sailing without convoy, shall be met by any vessels of war public or private, of the other party, such vessel of war shall not send more than two or three men in their boat on board the said neutral vessel to examine her passports and documents. And all persons belonging to any vessel of war, public or private, who shall molest or insult in any manner whatever the people, vessels or effects of the other party shall be responsible in their persons and property for damages and interest, sufficient security for which shall be given by all commanders of private armed vessels before they are commissioned."

While the seriousness of the attack upon the Gulf Light was a matter of discussion and speculation in official quarters generally today, belief was held by high officials that the German government if responsible would not seek to justify the act by small promises or excuses.

BANK OFFICIALS SAYS BUSINESS IS IMPROVING

Washington, May 3.—A good spirit of optimism, based on generally improved conditions in financial and industrial operations, exists throughout the United States, according to C. B. Hamlin, governor of the Federal reserve board, who returned to Washington today from a five weeks trip to the Pacific coast.

Mr. Hamlin said he found business men and bankers well pleased with the Federal Reserve system. Everywhere he went, he said, the belief prevailed that a new era of prosperity was at hand.

MRS. BROOKS, LANGKORNE SISTER, INHERITS FORTUNE FROM SOLDIER

London, May 3.—Mrs. Reginald Brooks, who was one of the beautiful Langkorne sisters of Virginia, and who recently obtained an interlocutory decree of divorce from Reginald Brooks, has inherited $400,000 from Captain Douglas Pennington of the British army who was killed in action. Mrs. Brooks obtained her divorce because she claimed she and her husband could not agree as to what part of the world they should live in.

until there is proof of any deliberate intention on the part of the German submarine commanders to attack American vessels, the experience of the Gulf Light must be regarded as an accident thought one for which compensation would be demanded.

President Wilson commended with Secretary Bryan and State Department officials who immediately began an investigation of the law pertaining to the case. The commission was that from reports received there from an observer at the attack, for even if it could be assumed that the vessel was attacked, the attack was not justified.

The Problem of The Young in 1915

(Commercial Appeal.)
Revelations in the trial of a young man charged with violating the age of consent law show an appalling condition of youthful (make morals in this city. And what is true of Memphis is true of every other city in the country.

We shall give attention to the efforts at home, for home mission effort is surely needed. A young girl, aged 15 years, a prosecuting witness against a young man 21. It was charged that he accomplished her

When the case came to trial, defense sought to break the force of the indictment by alleging the previous bad character of the girl.

Young boys of age and young men around town got on the wit and stand and swore to insinuations that the girl previous to the affair on which the indictment was found, was worthless.

They were glib of tongue and set witness up to a certain point. In murdering the good name of the girl they were as different as a small boy killing

There was a hung jury. Eight stood for conviction and four stood for acquittal. One of those who stood out for acquittal intimated that it was merely a question of a young man "sowing his wild oats."

One pimply faced juror of middle life said human nature was human nature and that he was not adverse to a flirtation and what might follow.

The others thought that such things were a matter of course, and thus the case was not decided.

A girl only fifteen years old cannot be entirely bad, but this girl in the court was treated as if she were a woman of experience, mature in years and wise to the ways of the world.

She was given no consideration because of her tender years. She was scarcely more than a child, but she was treated in the court as if she were old enough to take care of herself. The stranger in the court would have thought that she and not the boy was on trial.

There are many young men in this town between the ages of 16 and 21 who are doing nothing. They are silly and snobbish. Social viewpoint has come to making it a distinction if a young man is idle.

A father who may have toiled in the field or in the shop, who may be prematurely old because of the excess of his labor, after having secured a competency will not train his own son in habits of industry. A misguided affection causes him to want his boy to have a good time and not work as he worked.

The sons of such parents, many of them not encouraged to labor, are given money to spend and are given by their parents automobiles for riding around. By day they fill the pool rooms, picture shows and cigar stands.

and in bed at 10 o'clock. Daylight often finds them awake.

Those who work at night and go home at 2 o'clock and 3 o'clock in the morning often see groups of these young men suffering from the excesses of their first drink. Nothing so brings out the latent frailties and idiosyncrasies of humanity as a boy's first drink.

In these cases idleness is both father and mother of vice. These idle boys do not prey upon girls of their own station of life. Many of them to take advantage of young girls who because of our rotten economic conditions are compelled to labor away from home when they should be constantly under their mother's care.

These girls are regarded as legitimate prey for the idle sons of indulgent parents.

The burdens of poverty as to females is not in the loss of the comforts that the rich enjoy, but in the moral danger in the temptations that surround the conditions of poverty, even when the child is but a child.

The poor young girl may have an ambitious mother, whose ambition is for vain and foolish things. When the mother hears her daughter speaking of the attention she may be receiving from one in a different station of life or alleged social position she too often regards it as a tribute to the intelligence and beauty of her daughter and as a prospect for an advancement into a social career.

The busy father usually leaves the training of the family to the wife, and when the boys get around 16 years, instead of talking to them and counseling them, he lets them go their way, says little to them and then is surprised when he finds them fetching up at the police station.

When he suggests to his son that there is no double standard of morals, and that he must keep his body and soul clean, he is informed by his would-be blame youth that in these days such preachments are not in "good form."

answered with a yawn and a settlement that such sermons might but are out of date in this age of lady-killing clothes and class rings.

The problem of the morals of young men and the evil of their seeking out for destruction young girls are more serious than any other thing worth considering.

A confusion of license with freedom which is in our attitude of mind towards government goes even in the home. If a father attempts to exercise the right of a parent over his 16-year-old boy there is probably a revolt.

The young upstart announces that he is a free agent and that it would be a sacrifice of his liberty if he gave unquestioned obedience to his father's commands.

Religion seems to have lost its grip on the 16-21-year-old boys.

The pulpits resound with denunciation of evils which we seek to remedy by political agencies. Often are the sins of the mature thundered at, but seldom do we hear sermons to parents on their duty in regulating the lives of their children.

As for the children themselves, they are practically ignored in the things that are of vital importance until they become the victims of excesses into which they go often unwarned, unconscious of the end of the journey they begin.

Men and women ought to have sense enough to save themselves. Young boys and young girls are incapable of rational thinking, and yet there are few of the older ones who attempt to do their thinking for them and direct their lives along lines which the elders, in the light of their experience, know to be safe.

If human society should concentrate its efforts upon the proper rearing of boys and girls until they are 21 years old, then indeed many of the evils which men and women are now fighting would not exist. Their beginnings are usually in the youthful

What are the ministers, the teachers, the parents of Memphis going to do about this problem, what are the ministers, the teachers and parents of all the other communities of this country going to do?

The work of the devil among children was never prosecuted under better advantages than in this year of our Lord 1915.

Young girls begin to have beaux when they are about 15. Twenty years ago they did not begin to wear long dresses until they were 17. This comes from the social ambition of foolish mothers.

In the winter time the society columns of this paper and other papers are filled with stories of matinee parties, etc., given by the "younger set" (girls 13-14 boys 16-19) and this younger set ought never to be out after dark without a chaperon. They should be in bed before 10 o'clock.

We have the theatres and the picture shows and other places where children unaccompanied are permitted to go, and these same children, when they go to our beautiful parks, are often not accompanied by parents.

Then we have the pool room for the boys and other places where young men congregate, and there their minds are inflamed and their curiosity excited by the vulgarity of boys a few years older and sometimes by the indecent conversations of men who have lived long enough to lose their teeth. A corrupt-minded old man is like a pestilence-breeding leper.

And then we have a line of literature and pictures that are as poisonous to the soul as strychnine is to the body.

Yes, the devil finds in our advancing civilization many devices which make his work pleasant and easy.

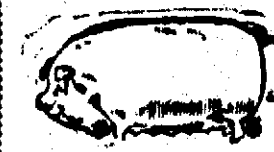

Let's begin to conserve children. The present old ones must take care of themselves. If the children are properly trained, then as they grow into men and women, they will be stronger to resist those things which they now if they embrace will finally destroy them.

A Breath of Violets. (In the City.)

A breath faint as a dream—then flashed this scene Upon his inward vision; a clear rill Sparkling amid its shallows; tender green
Of springtime meadows; light upon the hill;
And barefoot sunbrowned lads that blithely pass
Mid dim sweet dews still quickening in the grass.

Around him rise the clamors of the mart;

He hears them not—above an emerald bank

The swallows skim; once more,
with eager heart,

He hastes where shy, cool-rooted violets prank

The brookside, each a pale and hooded nun

Hiding her virgin forehead from the sun.

Flushed cheeks, and wind-tossed hair, and morning's gold

On hill and hollow; for a brief glad space

He sees them all—till once again are rolled

O'er him the city's tides; before his face

A harsh-voiced squalid flower vender stands

With violets in his soiled, importunate hands.

WOMEN SHOULD TAKE

If the statement made at a New York Assembly of women, that healthy American women are so rare that they are almost ex-women of America to take warn-may be headaches, backaches,

Texas Repudates Walsh's Statement Regarding Lands

Austin, Texas, May 3.—The adopted a resolution declaring that a statement on land tenen-ture in Texas, made yesterday by more thorough investigation" of land conditions than was made during the commission's hearing in Dallas last March. Mr. Walsh's statement yesterday said the commission found conditions in Texas bordering on serfdom.

COCONUT OIL MAKES A SPLENDID SHAMPOO

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, the less soap you use the better.
Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain malissard coconut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two temperatures will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it soft and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get malisard coconut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last a lifetime in the family for N is for "Nerve" to say something new,

No matter if all the world giggles at you.

T is for Type to set up the ad;
When you've done it like this, it COULDN'T be bad.

CONFIDENT

That is the way the "PARKER" tailored man feels. He knows his clothes are correct, and he knows they fit.

Besides everyone tells him so.

"I FIT YOU EXACTLY."

RECALL ORDERLIES

FOR CONSTIPATION

Recall Orderlies are a common-sense remedy for bowel disorders. Easy in action, they do not purge, grip, nauseate or cause excessive looseness.

We particularly recommend
